

November 9, 2006

To whom it may concern:

Andrew Tsandelis Dentistry Professional Corporation first came into contact with Aholattafun Productions upon opening up our newly re-located dental office in December 2003. Working together with Aholattafun, we were able to develop a website for our existing patients that provided them with further dental information available through various dental links. Additionally, we provided them with the opportunity to book on-line appointments through the website. For new patients looking for a dentist our website design was ideal for learning about the services we offer, meeting our staff and learning about our office policies and procedures. We know that this information has assisted them in making an informed decision when selecting our office. Many new patients tell us that they chose our office because of our awesome website.

Aholattafun has always been creative and efficient to deal with. They continue to provide us with excellent support in the management of our website. I would highly recommend Aholattafun for your website needs.

Krista Tsandelis
Business Manager
Andrew Tsandelis, Dentistry Professional Corporation

